2025 Prospectus for International Students

I.Introduction to Nanjing Xiaozhuang University

Nanjing Xiaozhuang University (NJXZU) is a full-time public university jointly built by Jiangsu Province and Nanjing City. The university, formerly known as Xiaozhuang Experimental Rural Normal School, was founded in 1927 by Mr. Tao Xingzhi, a great educator for the people. The university is also known as the birthplace of rural normal education in China. Over 98 years, the university has adhered to the educational philosophy of “Integrity of Teaching, Learning, and Practice,” continuously improving its educational standards and talent cultivation quality. The university now has three campuses: Fangshan, Mochou, and Xiaozhuang, covering a total area of nearly 250 acres. It comprises 15 schools, offering nine major disciplines including education, literature, history, economics, law, science, engineering, management, and art. Currently, there are over 18,000 full-time students enrolled. For four consecutive years, the university has ranked first in the Alumni Association’s ranking of China’s applied teacher-training colleges and universities.
